One little ant sitting on
a stone.

Two little ants. Now
he's not alone.

Three little ants go to find some food.

Four little ants. More help is good!

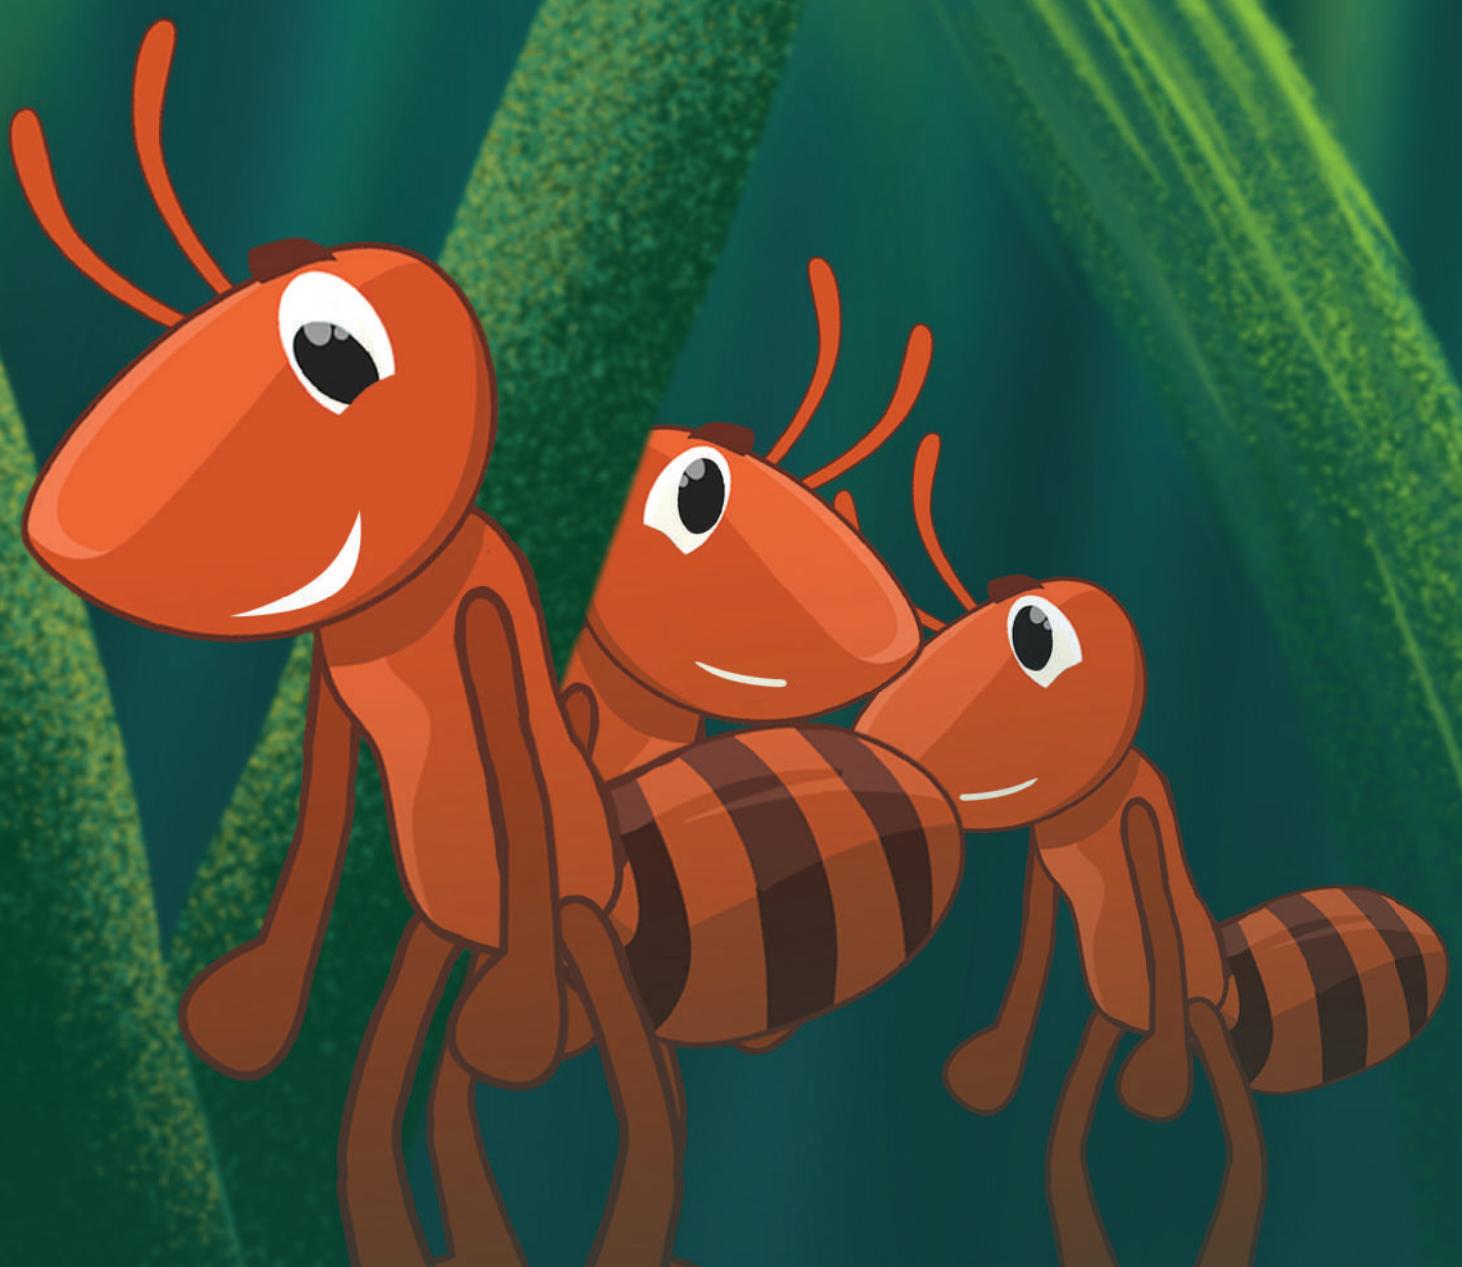

Five little ants. Hmm,
still not enough.

Six little ants. Finding food is tough!

Seven little ants, trying hard to push.

Eight little ants are almost squashed.

Nine little ants. No time to play!

Ten little ants. Now
they're on their way.

Eleven little ants think they are lost.

Twelve little ants, all
want to be the boss.

Thirteen little ants.
Look out for that stream!

The background features a lush green forest with large, textured leaves. A bright blue stream flows horizontally across the middle of the image, with sunlight reflecting off its surface. The overall atmosphere is natural and serene.

Fourteen little ants
form one big team.

The background features a large, stylized green ant with a segmented body and six legs. It is carrying a large, irregularly shaped load of brown material, possibly soil or food, which has a speckled texture. The ant is positioned in the upper right quadrant of the frame, moving from the top right towards the center.

Fifteen little ants. That makes it easier.

Sixteen little ants are getting squeezier.

Seventeen little ants,
on the right path.

The background of the image is a vibrant, stylized landscape. It features large, green, blade-like shapes that resemble grass or leaves. A prominent, textured yellow mound, possibly a termite hill, sits in the upper right. A brown, textured path or road leads from the bottom left towards the center of the scene.

Eighteen little ants,
heading home at last.

Nineteen little ants,
with food back in the nest.

Twenty little ants. First they feast, and then they rest.

About The Author

Robyn Cain lives in Brisbane, Australia, and has always enjoyed sharing stories with her children and grandchildren. Robyn has travelled widely in the Pacific region and lived in Papua New Guinea, which provided inspiration for this story. As a book lover herself, she understands the importance of literacy for both education and entertainment. She is proud to share her stories with Library For All to support their mission to help the world read.
